IMCA Insights

IMCA Insights is our semi-every-so-often publication and official newsletter, published in cooperation with the online magazine Meteorite-Times. All issues of IMCA Insights are meteorite and IMCA related, and they offer a wealth of information about our Association, as well as on meteorites, and meteoritics in general. You will find articles about "Getting a Meteorite Classified", reports about frauds, and IMCA programs, as well as regular show reports. Just have a look, and discover the world of IMCA Insights.

The current issue, and all back issues of IMCA Insights can either be accessed via the Meteorite-Times Homepage, or the these links to the annual indexes:

IMCA Insight was started in late 2005/early 2006 as an attempt to facilitate and to promote the communication between the IMCA Board of Directors and the IMCA Membership, but also as an educational platform that gives us the opportunity to reach the interested public in general, and to provide first-hand information about meteorites, meteoritics, and the various communities involved (scientists, dealers, collectors, etc.).

Speaking of that, IMCA Insights wasn't the first attempt in this regard, and it actually had kind of a precursor, called The Fusion Crust. Only one issue of this newsletter has been published in the early days of the IMCA, edited by our former IMCA Board Member Martin Horejsi.
